Loves 'Abductor'—Pretty 18-year-old Shirley Smith, of Winchester, today defended her alleged abductor, George Newhall, 25, as the man she loves. In a telephone interview at Lexington, N. C., she declared she "will fight for George's freedom."

Sudetens Hail Hitler; Chamberlain Fights

NAZI TROOPS march into Sudeten to the hails and cheers of thousands in the Czech village of Gloeckelberg. The troops were in command of General Ritter Von Leeb, acting under authorization of the Munich pact.

Duff Cooper Flays Britain-Nazi Pacts

After the War Clouds Pass

In scenes charged with drama, Duff Cooper, in tears, again attacks Chamberlain in Commons and the Prime Minister replies, defending his pacts with Hitler and the dismemberment of Czechoslovakia.

Adolf Hitler leads his army into the Sudetenland and is cheered as he pledges to defend the area and vows it shall never again be separated from the Reich.

Czechs, forced to give up most of the wealth of their benighted land, lay plans for dark future.

With the German Army of Occupation, Eger, Sudetenland, Oct. 3—The unsheathed German sword is a guarantee that the Sudetenland "never again will be torn from the Reich," Chancellor Adolf Hitler told a wildly-cheering crowd on his triumphal entry to Eger today.

Addressing thousands of Sudetens in Market square after leading his victorious army across the old German-Czech border with the fanfare and panoply of a Roman emperor, Hitler spoke briefly to the Eger population, turned out in holiday costume for the occasion.

"German people," he said, "I am greeting not only you but the entire Sudetenland, which within a few days will belong completely to the German Reich.

"Over the Reich lies our shield of protection, and protecting all is the German sword.

"The entire German nation

'Shame!' Cried At Premier

LONDON, Oct. 3 (AP)—Prime Minister Chamberlain told an intent House of Commons today that "I have nothing to withdraw or regret" concerning the four-power accord of Munich for the dismemberment of Czechoslovakia.

Chamberlain began his defense of his bargain with the German chancellor and the premiers of Italy and France after it had been bitterly assailed by Alfred Duff Cooper, who resigned Saturday as first lord of the admiralty because the Munich terms "stuck in my throat."

DUFF COOPER WEEPS

"When the House met last Wednesday," the prime minister recalled, "we were under the shadow of a great and imminent menace. War, more stark and terrible than it had ever appeared before, seemed to be staring us in the face.

"Today we know that the prayers of millions (for peace) have been answered."

Duff Cooper broke into bitter sobbing as he told the excited House that he had tried to swallow

Stalin Ousts Red Army Head

LONDON, Oct. 3 (INS)—Rumors that Field Marshal Vassily Bluecher, Soviet Russia's foremost military leader, has been deprived of his command of the Far Eastern Red army, were reported today in a Moscow dispatch.

"The Red Napoleon of the Far East," according to the rumors cited in the dispatch, has been confined to his home, apparently under "house arrest."

Bluecher

His reported downfall from Joseph Stalin's grace was rumored to be due to mistakes he was alleged to have made during August's bloody battle of Changkufeng between Far Eastern Soviet and Japanese troops.

His name was not mentioned in news accounts of a conference of Communist party workers attached to the first Red army of the maritime province, held on September 26.

Since execution of the brilliant Marshal Mikhail Tukhachevsky, in the summer of 1937, Marshal Bluecher, world war and civil war hero, has been recognized in international military circles as Russia's keenest army commander.

Declares Hitler 'Criminal Fanatic'

Adolf Hitler today was pictured as a "criminal fanatic" by Dr. I. A. Getting of Harvard, the speaker at a meeting in Faneuil Hall in the interests of Czechoslovakia.

Carved Czechs Plan for New Economic Life

PRAGUE, Oct. 3 (AP)—Czechoslovakia today tried to lay the foundations of a new economic life inside the narrower borders of this once prosperous realm which has yielded to German and Polish territorial claims and agreed to negotiate the demands of Hungary.

With German and Polish military occupation of frontier regions proceeding quietly, the supreme economic council originally set up by Premier Jan Syrovy as a defense organization was considering the nation's new industrial and financial status.

Probably not until the end of the year will the borders of the new state—which the premier declared "has the firm will to live"—be determined exactly.

The precise German and Polish frontiers are to be fixed by plebiscites. Prague is ready to start negotiating with Hungary on the dispute over the 860,000 Hungarian minority.

Although the new borders have not been determined, the nation knew it had lost almost all of its textile industry, which ranks fifth in the world. Gone, also, was the entire porcelain industry of West Bohemia, many coal mines and much of the paper industry.

On the bright side was the salvaging of almost the whole iron and steel industry. The Skoda armament works and the Witkowitzer and Kladnoer steel plants remained within the borders of the new state.

HOLDUP DEATH TRIAL ENDING

Wallace Green and Walter St. Sauveur, 21-year-old Somerville youths, may know their fate before nightfall.

The case against them was expected to go to the jury this afternoon. They are accused of the murder of William Phillips, Somerville storekeeper, in a holdup the night of May 31.

Green resumed the stand before Judge Wilford Gray and jury in Middlesex criminal court when court reconvened today.

He denied flatly that he knows any "Joe"—the mysterious "Joe" who, St. Sauveur testified, was with Green the night of the holdup and murder.

In effect, Green repudiated St. Sauveur's entire story on the stand. St. Sauveur testified last week that Green and the mysterious "Joe" came to his home the night of the murder, returned after the Phillips holdup and remained hidden in the cellar throughout that night.

Green today insisted he never left his own home all that night because he was "broke" and had no money to go anywhere.

He admitted having sold the gun, identified by the State as having been used in the murder, to St. Sauveur some days before for $25.

St. Sauveur, in his testimony, said Green gave him the gun the day following the Phillips killing and told him to "get rid of it."

TELLS ABOUT NOTES

Green admitted writing notes to St. Sauveur while they were both in East Cambridge jail, urging St. Sauveur to join him in an effort to escape.

Closing argument, it was expected, would follow the completion of Green's testimony, with the case then passing into the hands of the jury.

Woman Friend Accuses Officer

Patrolman Milton J. Whalen, 38, Thornton Park, Winthrop, a member of the Winthrop force for five years, was arraigned before Judge Charles J. Brown in East Boston court today on a charge of assault and battery lodged against him by a woman whose name police refused to reveal.

According to police, Whalen attended a party with the woman last night, offered to drive her home, and then, she charged, attempted to attack her. When she resisted, Chief of Police William Pumphret said she told him. Whalen drew his service revolver.

Whalen pleaded not guilty and was held in $3000 for hearing Saturday.

Winchester Girl's Love Defiance

Battles to Save Her 'Abductor'

"I love him dearly—more than anything in the world and my father will have to find a way for us to be happy."

These were the determined words today of Shirley Smith, 18, missing Winchester girl, in a telephone interview with the Boston Evening American from Lexington, N. C.

There, the long-sought Winchester playground instructress stood loyally at the side of her accused abductor, George Everett Newhall, 25 and married, also of Winchester.

With Newhall under arrest on a warrant charging abduction, the girl's father, C. Harold Smith, was speeding south to bring his daughter home.

Word received here from North Carolina was to the effect that Newhall was expected to waive extradition there. He will be brought back here within a week to face charges.

Shirley's father declared the charges will be pressed.

He left immediately when notified that the month-long search for his daughter was ended with Newhall's arrest and her discovery in a Lexington rooming house.

"I will fight for George's freedom," Miss Smith declared when

Young Carter Slain in Spain

In 1936 Barton Carter of Brookline sailed with his fiancee, beautiful Joan Kent of Surrey, England—they had set the wedding date, announcements had been sent to society's leaders in Boston, New York, London.

One month later word came that the wedding was indefinitely postponed—"It was just one of those things," said his friends—and he went to Loyalist Spain to serve first as civilian worker, later in the fighting International Brigade.

Today, his father, Winthrop L. Carter of Hammond street, Brookline, issued this statement:

"I am reluctantly forced to accept the official view cabled me: 'Barton Carter still missing, believed killed.'"

A senior at Williams College and heir to riches as son of the president of the Nashua, N. H., Gummed and Coated Paper Company, Barton had all promise of a life of happiness before him when he sailed abroad.

2d Woman Seeks Murray's Place

Mrs. Mary E. McDonald, Olive street, Jamaica Plain, today filed papers with the municipal election commission as a candidate for city councillor in Ward 19, where a special election is to be held December 6 to fill the seat vacated by the death of the late Peter A. Murray.

Mrs. McDonald is the second woman to file. Murray's daughter, Miss Alice Murray, also is a candidate.

Buddy Rogers Hurt in Crash

COLUMBUS, O., Oct. 3 (INS) — Charles "Buddy" Rogers, noted orchestra leader, suffered minor injuries today when the automobile in which he was riding overturned 12 miles north of Columbus, near Delaware, O.

At University Hospital, Columbus, where Rogers and Ben Feaman, 30, of Brooklyn, N. Y., and Jack Henderson, 28, of Garfield, N. J., driver of the car, were taken, Rogers was reported in "satisfactory condition."

The orchestra leader, husband of Mary Pickford, motion picture star of the "silent" days, suffered a dislocated right shoulder, torn ligaments in his right arm and body bruises.

"I expect to be out of here in two or three days," Rogers said. "The accident was entirely our own fault. We hit a soft shoulder and overturned two or three times, ending up against a light pole.

"Apparently the shock of the collision caused a short circuit on top of the pole. Pinned in the car with sparks flying in all directions, I wondered if we were doomed to be burned alive."

The men were enroute from Fremont, O., to Columbus, where Rogers was to have boarded a plane. They were rescued from the wreckage of their car by occupants of a passing bus.

Mary Pickford Flies To Injured Husband

NEW YORK, Oct. 3 (INS)—Mary Pickford hastened to Newark airport early today and boarded a transport plane for Columbus, O., immediately upon receiving a report from her husband, Charles "Buddy" Rogers, on the extent of injuries he suffered in an automobile accident this morning.

Boy's Torture Suspect Held

Alleged torture of a 12-year-old boy who had been handcuffed to a tree in Dedham woods was revealed in Dedham district court today.

Arrested and arraigned in connection with the case, after a secret investigation, was William Little, 29, of Pierpont street, West Roxbury, a Wellesley statistician and member of a well-known family.

Little vigorously denied the charge, pleaded not guilty and was held in $2000 bail which his young wife, loyally beside him in court, took steps to obtain.

The Littles have one child.

According to the story of the boy victim, he and a chum were hiking to Wellesley to visit a sister, who is in a convalescent home there, when a motorist gave them a ride.

The boys allege that while one was left in a parked car, the other was dragged into the woods, secured to a tree with a pair of toy handcuffs and cruelly mistreated.

Ft. Banks Soldier Held After Crash

Private Michael J. Phelan, Fort Banks, Winthrop, was held in $100 bail and his case continued to October 19 today when he was arraigned before Judge Paul MacDonald in Chelsea court on an auto charge.

Sergeant John Starkey, of Revere police, told the court Phelan lost control of his car in Winthrop avenue, Revere, crashed into a parked machine and then smashed into a garage.

Child Bride Awaits Stork

Mrs. Geraldine Jordan Murphy, now a sedate 16, is back today in the news.

Publicized as the first child bride in recent Massachusetts history during the spring of last year, she will become a mother within the next few days.

Both she and her youthful husband, Joseph, confirmed the report this morning at their home in Dorchester avenue, Dorchester. Not so long ago, they were the most celebrated young couple in New England.

When the pair eloped to Seabrook, N. H., in March of 1937, and were married, papers all over the country gave the romance front page space.

Child marriages were a burning issue at that time and the girl was only 14. Her husband was 20. Upon their return, they were arrested, the girl on the charge of being a stubborn child and the boy accused of abduction.

The charges were brought by the girl's mother, who relented subsequently and consented to the mating.

Murphy, in his attempt to support his child bride, appealed to Governor Hurley for help before going to work for a Boston furniture company.

Special Session Storm Funds

Governor Hurley today predicted a special session of the legislature may be necessary to make available the $13,449,000 he and his executive council voted for storm relief.

The council appropriation has been only an empty gesture to date, as State Treasurer William E. Hurley, with only a little more than a million dollars in his coffers, has refused to advertise bids for the remaining $12,000,000 until it has been approved by the General Court.

The Governor returned today from Washington, where he spent the week-end in conference with heads of federal departments concerned with reclamation and rehabilitation work in the state.

Sleuth In Dolan Case Accused

Alfred A. Bligh, 38, of West Newton street, private detective and star witness in the alleged jury-fixing charges against former city treasurer Edmund C. Dolan, was arraigned in Roxbury court today on a complaint of impersonating a police officer and attempted larceny.

He pleaded not guilty to both charges and was allowed out in $200 bail for a continued hearing on Wednesday.

Bligh was arrested after he is alleged to have "flashed" a police badge on Solomon Schneider, promoter of the recent water carnival at the Boston Arena, and demanded $17 for Madam Ella, one of the performers.

Test Tube Rabbits Born Without Father

By G. B. LAL
International News Service Science Editor
(Copyright 1938)

NEW YORK, Oct. 3 (INS)—Living young rabbits have been produced in the laboratory "test-tubes" from unfertilized eggs by Prof. Gregory Picus of Harvard University, it was learned today in an exclusive communication.

About three years ago Dr. Picus had announced that he had caused development in rabbit eggs by treating them with heat, strong salt solution and such purely chemical and physical means.

Even the birth of a mammal was shown to be possible merely from the mother's egg cells, showing the relative unimportant part that the father's germ cells played in reproduction.

Aiming to replace the male germ cells by other substances that would stimulate development of the eggs, Dr. Picus has continued with new experiments.

He now reports that the development of the fertilized eggs in the normal way within the body of the mother rabbit was similar to that produced artificially outside the body.

Science can do in test tubes whatever nature does within the maternal body to the eggs of a mammal like the rabbit.

Cautiously, as the result of some of the experiments, Prof. Picus says:

"Living young rabbits may arise from artificially activated eggs, but only in a limited number of cases."

Five kinds of treatment were given to the unfertilized rabbit eggs kept in vessels.

They were kept in a hypertonic solution (salt), given very high temperature, cultured in a moist chamber. They were also treated with the male germ cells of the rat, and of six other types of mammals.

While heat and salt treatment produced artificial fertilization in the eggs, the male cells of other mammals had no effect. The male cells of the rat, however, were effective in some cases.

Dr. Picus' experiments might some day be repeated with even higher forms of mammals than the rabbits, but about that the scientist says nothing for the present.

Test Bartolini Respite Story

A man resembling the newspaper pictures of John A. Lyons was seen hatless, coatless and excited near the Weymouth home of Mrs. Grace Asquith the night she was murdered.

That is the story told by Mrs. Oliver Wetherbee, of Newell, and being seriously investigated today by state police.

It's the most important part of the "new evidence" on which Lieutenant-Governor Francis E. Kelly postponed the death sentence of Oscar Bartolini for thirty days.

FAVORED FRIEND

Lyons was admittedly a favored friend of long standing in the home of Mrs. Asquith, a gay widow with an eye for handsome men.

Until Mrs. Wetherbee told her story, he had been unreported for some time before the widow's death.

While not stating it openly, the prosecution in Bartolini's case implied that the same person who killed the widow might have also killed Lyons and disposed of his body.

A part of Bartolini's defense was that Lyons was the more likely suspect and had fled after slaying Mrs. Asquith.

George B. Laurie, attorney for Bartolini, plans to make much of Mrs. Wetherbee's statement. She said she was "driven by conscience" to make it.

OUT OF DEATH CELL

Reprieved for the third time, Bartolini has been removed from the death cell and was back in the Cherry Hill section of the prison today.

His execution was delayed two hours before he was to have walked the last mile to the electrocution chair. Phlegmatic in all things, he accepted the reprieve without much outward show of emotion.

Between Bible readings and arguments with guards, he has repeatedly reiterated his innocence. He is confident he will never die for the murder of the attractive widow.

Police Warn Tech And Harvard Boys

Cambridge fire and police authorities today served warning on Harvard and M. I. T. students they would stand for no further horseplay at Cambridge fires.

More than 500 students jeered and hooted fire-fighters battling a two-alarm blaze in an abandoned shed in Sidney street. Lieutenant Robert Douglas responded with two carloads of police reserves as the students got unruly. The students were dispersed after they had shouted hilarious advice.

Toscanini Mystery Big Discord

ROME, Oct. 3 (INS)—Mystery today surrounded reports that Arturo Toscanini, 71-year-old world-famed symphony maestro, had encountered passport difficulties with the Italian government.

ArturoToscanini

There were conflicting and confusing rumors concerning the former conductor of the New York Philharmonic Symphony Orchestra who is scheduled to conduct a series of National Broadcasting Company's concerts in the United States beginning this month. One report was that he planned to sail to New York Wednesday from France.

His exact whereabouts were unknown and he was variously reported as being in France, at his Italian Pallanza villa near Lake Maggiore and in Milan, where his daughter, Countess "Wally" Castelbarco, lives.

He is an avowed adversary of Fascist-Nazi racial theories.

The inquiries regarding the 71-year-old Toscanini, his family in Italy responded in a guarded manner.

(The London Sunday Referee in a Milan dispatch said Countess Castelbarco informed a correspondent by telephone that her father had been visiting her, but refused to reveal any additional information. Reuter's News Agency quoted Toscanini's son, Walter, in Rome as denying his father's passport had been taken up.)

She Charges Husband 'Kissed Other Women'

WORCESTER, Oct. 3—"My husband, in my presence, often kissed the wives of other men at drinking parties."

Thus Mrs. Agnes C. Moore, local socialite, described the alleged amorous proclivities of her husband, William R. Moore, wealthy business executive, at a probate court hearing today on his petitioin for divorce.

Moore is seeking dissolution of the marriage bond on the ground of cruelty.

He has testified his wife locked him out three times, used coarse language towards him, and on one occasion forced him to make the bed.

DENIES CHARGES

The vivacious young matron took the stand today to refute his allegations.

She testified that on one occasion in a New York night club, her husband, at a dinner party of a school alumnae, asked one of the entertainer if she had "any good New York telephone numbers."

"I reminded my husband not to forget I was present," said Mrs. Moore, "but he went right ahead flirting with the girl and finally had six rounds ow whiskey with her.

"Shortly after that occurred he got mad at our Worcester home because I would not let him have the un of the house to entertain a widow friend of his."

LOCKED HIM OUT

Mrs. Moore admitted that she had locked her husband out on the occasions he has alleged but told Judge Harry W. Atwood that she did it after 3 a. m. each time because she was afraid to be alone with the doors unlocked.

She denied she had ever thrown missels at him, used coarse language towards him or forced him to make their bed.

Asked if she knew what had happened t othe huge fortune supposedly possessed by her husband at the date of their marriage, Mrs. Moore declared he had spent it "in drinking bouts."

Girl, 13, Spurns Mother's Love

BROCKTON, Oct. 3—Open arms of her mother were extended in vain today to 13-year-old Marion Yuill, central figure in a bitter custody battle here.

After she had allegedly told of being cruelly treated at home, the child was taken from her parents, Mr. and Mrs. James Yuill of Plymouth, just as they were about to sail last week for Scotland.

MARION

Taken into court here today by her temporary guardian, a Boston social worker, little Marion refused to talk to her mother or even meet her beseeching gaze.

AUNT REBUKES HER

An aunt, Mrs. James Dixon of Kingston, approached the daughter in an anteroom and vainly urged her to heed her mother's plea for a reconciliation.

The social worker, Miss Helen Johnson of the Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Children, spoke for Marion, in the latter's presence.

"Marion doesn't wish to talk to her mother and wants to avoid a scene," she said.

The aunt said:

"Marion, I shouldn't think you could sleep at night, being so unfair and unkind to your mother."

BLAMES NEIGHBORS

"I sleep all right," the girl retorted.

Counsel for the parents asked Judge George Poland to dismiss the temporary guardianship and return Marion to her family.

The case was continued to Wednesday.

"Neighbors were to blame for all this," Mrs. Yuill said, after court. "They filled Marion's head with dreams about Hollywood and a movie career.

"She is oldest of my six children and the one I always loved best. Why should I be cruel to her and not to her brothers and sisters?"

RITES FOR AUTO VICTIM

BELFAST, Me., Oct. 3—Funeral services will be held here tomorrow for Custer G. Dickey, 58, killed at Hampden when the automobile in which he was riding struck a street car.

Girl Defends 'Abductor'

"George must be set free," she added determinedly. "I will not go home with my father unless the man I intend to marry can go with us.

"I never dreamed my parents would cause this trouble by bringing charges against him. We are in love and intend to get married as soon as George can get a divorce.

"Unless my folks agree to drop the charges, I am afraid we never can be good friends."

Miss Smith said she left her home with Newhall and drove to Powhatan county, near Richmond, Va.

"We lived there two weeks," she said. "Then we decided to go to Lexington, where we had been before. We planned to earn enough money so he could get his divorce and marry me.

"We ran out of money and were destitute. I remembered I had $6 in a Winchester bank and we decided to put through a draft to get the money. Then we were afraid we would be found. It seems that we were right, for that's how they located us.

"George got a job a few days ago at $25 a week driving a truck, but now he is arrested.

"I saw him at the jail today and told him I would be right at his side in the fight for his freedom. I am grieved that my parents have done such a thing and they have got to straighten it all out for him before I will go back home."

Police also hold warrants for the girl as a stubborn child and a runaway but allowed her freedom when convinced she is going to remain at the side of Newhall.

Newhall agreed to waive extradition and go back to fight charges brought before the Middlesex county grand jury. Federal agents said they could seek to bring additional charges against him today.

The letter for money in a Winchester bank revealed the hiding place of the couple. The parents were notified and immediately contacted G-men.

Miss Smith was graduated from Winchester High School last June and was 17 when she ran away. She since has celebrated her 18th birthday anniversary.

The Smith family conducted a quiet search for a while and then appealed to police to find their daughter. Finally, the heartbroken father went to District Attorney Warren L. Bishop for aid.

Unidentified Man Dies in Street

An unidentified man dropped dead today in Huntington avenue, Back Bay, near the Museum of Fine Arts. He was about 65 years of age, wore a gray suit, gray hat and black shoes. The body was taken to the southern mortuary.

Religion Urged as 'Red' Curb

HARTFORD, Ct., Oct. 3—Religious education for both adults and juveniles was offered as a solution of the most of present-day problems by Bishop Edwin V. O'Hara of Great Falls, Montana, in an address today before the national congress of the Confraternity of Christian Doctrine.

In attendance at the congress are hundreds of bishops, priests, nuns, monks and laymen, delegated as representatives of some 20,000,000 Catholics in the United States.

Bishop O'Hara professed to see in the breakdown in religious instruction the most serious fault in American life.

"There are glaring lapses of religious education," he said, "not only in little children but in youths of high school age and adults.

"We must employ not only intensive but extraordinary measures to spread widely the doctrines of the Christian faith.

"There is no other way out of our present-day muddles except through individual religious education."

The anti-social lawlessness of Red philosophy, its sedition and subversion, are "offsprings of irreligion," stated the Rev. Monsignor Joseph M. Corrigan, rector of Catholic University.

"We demand, in the strength of our millions, that our stand be heard for God in the individual, God in the home, God in business, God in government, and we call on all men and women of good will, non-Catholics as well as Catholics, to rally to this crusade," he said.

Archbishop John Gregory Murray of St. Paul, Minn., who read a special message and apostolic benediction from Pope Pius and Bishop George J. Rehring of Cincinnati, O., likewise urged solidarity in the war against Communism.

Greetings of state and city were brought to the delegates by Governor Wilbur L. Cross and Mayor Thomas J. Spellacy, of Hartford.

Solemn pontifical mass was celebrated by Bishop Maurice J. McAuliffe, of Hartford. Among those gathered within the sanctuary rail were the Most Rev. Francis J. Spellman, auxiliary bishop, of Boston, Bishop James E. Cassidy, of Fall River and Bishop-elect Matthew F. Brady, of Burlington, Vt.

Says Roosevelt Wants No 3rd Term

WASHINGTON, Oct. 3 (AP)—Senator Bulkley (D.) of Ohio, who conferred with President Roosevelt at Hyde Park over the week-end, said today he did not think Mr. Roosevelt wanted a third term.

Bulkley added he did not think the President had "such a thing in mind at all."

Effort to Save Wife Is Futile

BROCKTON, Oct. 3—Carl Bowman of Brockton avenue today was recovering from automobile injuries at Brockton Hospital, bowed with grief that his efforts to save his wife's life had been futile.

Motorist after motorist swerved outside him and sped on. Finally Raymond Powell of Stoughton and John Albanese of Brockton halted, but it was too late.

Hunt Relatives Of Dead Woman

A verdict of death by natural causes was rendered by Medical Examiner Nathaniel P. Breed today in the death of Mrs. Georgia Sattisbee, 51, of Union street, Lynn, found on the floor of her home.

Police attempted to locate relatives in Newburyport, where Mrs. Sattisbee was born.

Democrats Plan $100 Banquet

By ALFRED D. WHELTON

At least 500 Democrats will be asked to pay $100 each for dinner in order to aid in financing the campaign for election of the party ticket in November, it was announced today by the Democratic state committee.

Postmaster-General James A. Farley, right-hand man to President Roosevelt and chairman of the Democratic National committee, and U. S. Senator David I. Walsh are listed as guest speakers.

The date is October 23 and the place the Copley-Plaza Hotel.

Former Governor James M. Curley, nominee of the party for another term, and the entire state ticet also are scheduled to speak.

GOP FEAST TONIGHT

The announcement came as final preparations were made for a "united front" dinner scheduled by the Republican state committee at Machanics Building tonight to usher in the pre-election drive of the party.

Carroll L. Meins, Republican state chairman, announced that Richard Whitcomb and Frederick Butler will share the same platform with Leverett Saltonstall, the Republican nominee who defeated them at the primary.

Speaker of the House Horace T. Cahill, successful in his quest for Republican nomination as lieutenant governor; State Secretary Cook, State Treasurer William E. Hurley, Russell A. Wood, candidate for state auditor, and Clarence A. Barnes, candidate for attorney-general, also are listed as speakers.

Former Fire Commissioner Edward F. McLaughlin heads the committee for the Democratic dinner, with former State Auditor Francis X. Hurley representing formr Governor Curley, Assistant Attorney-General Arthur V. Sullivan representing Attorney-General Paul A. Dever.

REPRESENT LEADERS

Deputy State Auditor John J. Harrington represents Auditor Thomas H. Buckley on the committee, John J. Gilbride represents James H. Brennan, nominee for lieutenant governor, and John C. Quirk represents Owen Gallagher, party nominee for state treasurer.

Mrs. Catherine Foley, nominee for secretary of state, is expected to name a representative on the committee this week.

Chairman McLaughlin announced that James Roosevelt, son of the President, and Senator Walsh were the first to become guarantors of the $100 dinner fee.

2 BOY-LOOTERS CAUGHT

Two North End boys, 16 and 17 years old, were apprehended by police today allegedly in the act of looting a Hanover street clothing store. They had carted suits and coats worth $200 from a rear entrance and were taking away their last load when caught, police said.

Flaming Lumber Boat Sought by Coast Guards

Aflame and crewless, a derelict lumber schooner out of Norfolk Va., was sought by the government cutter Ponchartrain today 500 miles off the coast of Massachusette.

She will be sunk, as a menace to ocean travel.

Captain H. G. Milton, who owned and commanded the schooner Pioneer, and the four in crew, were taken off the burning ship by Captain Alfred M. Moore and the men of the U. S. Lines passenger-freighter American Banker.

He was headed for London and the Pioneer was Barbadoes-bound, out of Halifax, N. S.

It was the third thrilling rescue in the last nine years for Captain Moore, who has been twice decorated.

Milton lives in Norfolk, and is married. He and his men will be carried to London.

Te burning Pioneer is in the path of North Atlantic traffic. Partly submerged, she may be a serious threat.

HUBBY RESCUED—Mrs. H. G. Milton waits in Norfolk, Va., for radio reports of the rescue of her skipper husband from his burning lumber schooner, American Pioneer. Captain Milton and his crew of four were saved by U. S. liner American Banker.

Arlington Man Held for Trial On Girl's Story

Edward Darragh, Westmoreland venue, Arlington, pleaded not guilty and was held in $2000 bail, in case continued to October 10, when he was arraigned in Charlestown Court today on charges brought by pretty, 27-year-old Frances O'Keefe, Pearson road, Somerville.

Miss O'Keefe today was in a hospital, suffering from a possibly fractured jaw, blackened eyes and other injuries, which, she charged, resulted when she resisted Darragh's advances as he was driving her home from a Charlestown night club.

Miss O'Keefe appeared at Cambridge police headquarters, driving Darragh's car. She explained she drove off in the car when Darragh got out in Harvard square to buy a newspaper. Her alleged beating, she said, occurred near the state prison in Charlestown.

Police are holding the car.

2 Flee Scene After Viewing Hit-Run Victim

NORTHBORO, Oct. 3—After examining the unconscious and bleeding form of a Boston truckman, hit by their auto here today, an unidentified youth and girl climbed back into their car and fled.

The accident victim, Cecil Semon, 29, of Dartmouth street, South End, Boston, was taken to Worcester City Hospital by his helper. Doctors said Semon had sustained head, body and internal injuries and might die.

According to the helper, Richard McKay, Semon was struck by the hit-and-run car while he was inspecting the engines of his truck.

McKay gave police a description of the couple who fled after seeing how badly Semon was hurt.

Orangoutangs In China Army?

SHANGHAI, Oct. 3 (AP)—An old Chinese and Japanese legend about orangoutangs was applied to the Oriental war today.

A Japanese correspondent reported he had it from a reliable Japanese source that the Chinese had 5000 orangoutangs trained to throw hand grenades.

Furthermore, the correspondent wrote, he was told the Chinese had been capturing and training the animals in southwestern provinces for the past 10 years.

There frequently have been legendary stories in the Orient of trained orangoutangs.

Hurricane Swath Amazes Legioners

Massachusetts Legionnaires, back home from the Legion national convention at Los Angeles, today expressed surprise at damage wrought by the hurricane.

The special train that brought them home was the first to pass over the western section of the Boston & Albany Railroad in some time, the trip being made over newly-laid rails in many places.

Bluenose Idle, Thebaud Sails On Trial

GLOUCESTER, Oct. 3 (AP)—Bluenose, Canadian defender of the international fishermen's trophy, idled at her dock today while the American challenger, Gertrude L. Thebaud, went for a trial spin off Eastern Point, preparing for the championship contest which begins Oct. 9.

Already in racing shape, Thebaud went out today in a strict sailing test. When she came in, Captain Ben Pine said her mainsail, foresail and jib were stretching too much, and ordered them retrimmed.

Chinese Claim 3000 Japs Slain

HANKOW, Oct. 3 (INS)—Chinese military headquarters here today claimed more than 3000 Japanese troops were killed and 300 taken prisoners in a violent battle provoked by a Chinese counter-attack from Wuning, southeast of Hankow.

It was claimed Chinese troops were still advancing eastward along the highway south of the Yangtze river after three days of victorious fighting.

Roosevelt Relaxes After War Tension

HYDE PARK, N. Y., Oct. 3 (AP)—President Roosevelt rested at his home here today, enjoying the first real relaxation he has had for many weeks.

The President went to St. James Episcopal Church yesterday and heard a sermon on peace by the Rev. Frank R. Wilson. Earlier, Mr. Roosevelt had asked the nation to join with him Sunday in praying for continued peace.

Killed in Manner He Feared Most

HAVERHILL, Oct. 3—James Surette, 62, of Water street, was dead today killed in the very manner he feared.

Because there were no street lights near his home, owing to disruption of service by the storm, he carried a flashlight with him to warn automobiles. As he neared his home a car struck him. He died later.

Boston Evening American Photo

HONORED by Tech, Marjorie Quinlan of Brighton is one of three girls on the Dean's list at the engineering school.

Man's World? Not Any More!

To make dean's list is something in any man's land. But when a GAL makes it in a college devoted almost exclusively to masculine interests, that's really something.

Marjorie Quinlan, of Brighton, with two other members of the fair sex, did it at the Massachusetts Institute of Technology—a man's world, if ever there was one.

There were two others who conquered the honor ranks. Miriam Wheeler, of Brookline, class of 1940, also on the Dean's list. She's going in for engineering, too.

And there's Janet Norris, class of 1942, on the Dean's list for architecture.

She didn't aim for the dean's list. But just worked for work's sake, according to the young lady.

For pleasure, Marjorie sails a dinghy on the Charles River.

Six hundred males made the aforesaid list—just for statistical information.

Swedish Freighter Disabled, Asks Aid

HALIFAX, N. S., Oct. 4 (Canadian Press)—East Coast radio reported receipt of a message today from the New York bound Swedish motorship Kolsnaren saying she had lost her propeller. The vessel gave her position as 60 miles east of Sable Island. She reported a tug was on the way to her assistance.

Gale on Way, But It'll Blow Out to Sea

The Weather Bureau today reported a gale "of increasing intensity" moving northward from Sandy Hook, N. J. to Eastport, Me.

But, added the weather man, the gale reaches its full blast this afternoon—450 miles off the coast.

M'Donough Can OK Work Up to $10,000

Any storm relief project up to $10,000 can be approved by WPA Administrator John J. McDonough without referring it to Washington, it was known today after a speech by McDonough at Fitchburg.

At the same time, McDonough announced all regular Works Progress Administration projects, with the exception of sidewalk work, would be halted at once to expedite flood and hurricane repairs.

DEATH RULED SUICIDE

Contends Rails' Business Better

WASHINGTON, Oct. 3 (AP)—Counsel for railroad brotherhoods contended otday that increasing business indicates there is no need for the 15 per cent pay cut the carriers have proposed.

"Do you know, if you got $250 million out of us," Hay asked, "what the railroads would do with it?" He referred to the proposed pay cut, aggregating that amount.

"Then you couldn't pay fixed charges with it, could you?" demanded Hay, who has argued that the railroads are attempting to make the employes bear the burden resulting from excessive interest charges.

"Are you in favor of repudiation of these debts?" interposed J. Carter Fort, counsel for the railroads.

"I'm in favor of a lot of these boys who have been out of jobs getting what they are entitled to," retorted Hay.

Chamberlain Fights Critics

[illegible] Munich [illegible]

[illegible] before Chamberlain [illegible] debate on the accord [illegible] a European war. Duff Cooper explained his resignation [illegible] a bitter denunciation of the Chamberlain directed British [illegible] throughout the crisis.

He declared that Britain must be prepared to fight against any other attempt by any nation to dominate Europe by force and added:

"For that principle we must ever be ready to fight, for on the day we are not prepared to fight for it we shall have forfeited our empire, our liberty and our independence."

Chamberlain appeared to [illegible] with a tremendous wave of [illegible] supporters as he entered the House. His followers [illegible] seats to give him a rousing reception as he took his seat on the treasury bench.

The diplomatic gallery was packed by representatives of almost every country in the world including United States Ambassador Joseph P. Kennedy, for the opening of the full dress debate on the Munich bargain for the partitioning of Czechoslovakia.

The opposition had loudly cheered Duff Cooper when he entered the House a few seconds before Chamberlain.

"HITLER'S YES MAN"

Amid the cheering, William [illegible], only Communist member of Commons, shouted at Chamberlain:

"Shameful! Hitler's yesman!"

Duff Cooper, saying that he had a painful and delicate task, in explaining his resignation letter, declared the majority of the House of most anxious to back the prime minister and that [illegible] sacrificing between them and us.

"The great defeat of our foreign policy of recent months and recent weeks is that we have failed to make it plain to other countries," he said.

He said: "Britain should let them know where you stand and what in certain circumstances, you are prepared to do."

It was expected the [illegible] would last three days. The public awaited intently indications of the views of big figures outside the cabinet, such as ex Prime Minister David Lloyd George, Winston Churchill and Anthony Eden, former foreign secretary.

DRIFTING TO WAR

Chamberlain had reviewed the situation in a brief cabinet meeting before facing the House of Commons. The government is [illegible] to the paper including the [illegible] between Chamberlain and Hitler and the agreements [illegible] at Munich. All this material previously had been made [illegible].

"We have been drifting day by day into war with Germany. We never said until the last moment and then in uncertain fashion that we were prepared to fight.

"Yet we knew that information to the opposite effect was being poured into the ears of the German leaders.

"Everything pointed to the fact that Germany was preparing for war, and the one way that it could be prevented was by Britain making a stand and saying she would be in that war on the other side.

"We should have been fighting in order that one great power should not be allowed, in disregard of treaty obligations and the laws of nations and the decrees of morality, to dominate by brute force the continent of Europe.

FAWNING TO HITLER

"We were always told that on no account must we irritate Herr Hitler. It was dangerous to irritate him before he made a public speech.

"Such reserved utterances as were made by the Premier and Chancellor of the Exchequer meant nothing to the mentality of Hitler or Mussolini.

"With new methods and a new morality they (the dictators) had introduced a new vocabulary. They discarded the old diplomatic methods of correspondence.

"During the whole of this crisis there had not been a German ambassador in London and the German chargé d'affaires had hardly visited the foreign office.

"I had urged mobilization (of the fleet) for many days.

"I thought it was the kind of language it would have been easier for Herr Hitler to understand."

Duff [illegible] be prepared [illegible] attempt [illegible] Europe by [illegible] added:

"For that principle we must ever be ready to fight, for on the day we are not prepared to fight for it we shall have forfeited our empire, our liberty and our independence."

CHAMBERLAIN REPLIES

Chamberlain [illegible] was [illegible] he rose to speak [illegible] 10:52 [illegible].

"Today we know with joy and thankfulness that the prayers of millions for peace have been answered," he said amid thunderous cheers.

Referring [illegible] Chamberlain [illegible] thing [illegible] good.

"The responsibility of the members of the cabinet during the last few weeks has been almost overwhelming," he continued.

"Some of us will carry the mark of it for the rest of our days.

"Time was one of the essential factors at Munich. All the elements were present for the outbreak of a conflict which might have precipitated a catastrophe.

WITHOUT SHAME

"There were extremists on both sides ready to work up provoked incidents. Therefore, it was essential quickly to reach a conclusion so that the painful operation of transfer might be carried out at the earliest moment."

Shame! Labor members shouted when Chamberlain referred to his sympathy for Czechoslovakia.

"I have nothing to be ashamed of," he angrily retorted.

[illegible] Labor [illegible]

"Let those who have, hang their heads."

After [illegible] Munich [illegible]

"In giving a verdict we should do well to avoid describing it as a personal or national triumph for anybody."

Gotham Has New Wax Display

By EDWIN C. HILL

NEWS THAT a new wax museum will be opened in New York comes to [illegible] underlined in [illegible] considering the interest it has aroused among the [illegible] who have passed [illegible] of the Eden Musee in West 23d street.

There were all the great Civil War generals—Lee, surrender at Appomattox; Jeb Stuart, [illegible] the Mississippi; the signing of the Declaration of Independence and other historic scenes of history.

IT IS CURIOUS that here in the age of movies we [illegible] enjoy horrors more than we do in this supposedly less sophisticated day. Just as [illegible] children [illegible] are peppered over the Brothers Grimm and Hans Christian Anderson, so I remember [illegible] there were no [illegible] warning parents against giving their children the heebie-jeebies by taking them to the Eden Musee.

But now the [illegible] scene, and [illegible] Snow White [illegible] the cold [illegible] pits and many [illegible] have been worried over her. I confess that she [illegible] a bit queasy but youngsters I have talked to seem to like [illegible].

It is interesting to note that the new wax museum here will be established by the Movie Crowd, which is the owner and operator of Mme. Tussaud's Museum. This [illegible] Frenchwoman who was Marie Grosholz [illegible] one of the strangest [illegible] that ever dipped into the stage of history.

A marvelously gifted sculptor, a friend of royalty she had made wax figures of many of the [illegible] before the start of the French Revolution. The mobs, needing effigies to revile and drag through the streets, [illegible] her shop. Times and then when the terror began. They dragged her to make death mask of the victims of the guillotine. She made scores of them. Marie Antoinette, among others.

Caught in the madness of the revolution, she had been [illegible] with Josephine Beauharnais, who later became the empress. This gave her an approach to Napoleon [illegible] to England in 1802.

Later she returned to France, bringing [illegible] Mme. Tussaud's wax museum [illegible] in both London and Paris. One of her [illegible], John Theodore Metzger, [illegible].

LISTEN, WORLD!

By ELSIE ROBINSON

MODERN YOUTH noting things it has never noticed before and asking, for instance, whether "Domestic Help" gets a fair and friendly deal!

To-day's wide BEATRICE SCHANDE of Muskegon, Mich., put that wonder into plain words.

"Dear Miss Robinson

"HOW WOULD YOU LIKE TO BE A DOMESTIC HELP?

"There is the question which faces thousands of American girls—a question embellished with every inducement of easy living, private progress and fair play.

"BUT WHEN YOU COME RIGHT DOWN TO IT, WHAT DOES IT AMOUNT TO? BUNK—AND NOTHING ELSE BUT—ALL THESE WONDERFUL PROMISES FADE THE MINUTE YOU TAKE THE JOB. THEN YOU'RE UP AGAINST PLAIN DRUDGERY FROM MORNING 'TIL NIGHT.

"Our country a democracy? Don't make me laugh! The 'American woman domestic' is as much a slave as any shackled member of the chain gang."

THEN ANOTHER working girl's viewpoint of the current satire. Is the American housewife a slipper ruthlessly selfish? Indifferent to her working sisters or her laboring brothers wants, rights and needs?

Says RUTH CRYMES of Atlanta, Ga.: "SHE IS!"

"Dear Elsie:

"There is just one thing that makes me see red and that is these housewives who wait until noon to do their shopping, then stand in the middle of the aisle, comparing merchandise and gossiping.

"CAN'T THEY REALIZE THAT THE OFFICE GIRL HAS ONLY ONE SHORT HOUR TO DO HER LUNCH AND SHOP . . . AND THAT THEY ARE CONSUMING THAT HOUR BY THEIR IDLE FOOLISHNESS?

"I believe all girls should work at least one year before marrying. Then, perhaps, they'd acquire a little knowledge of the value of time—a little sympathy for the other woman's necessity."

THEN HERE'S another defense, neither for the WORKER nor the UNEMPLOYED but for that much abused convenience, SLANG, and by a poet at that—STANLEY OWEN of OROVILLE, CALIF.

Says Stanley:

"The formal phraseology of yesterday cannot fit our modern hustle and bustle. We need quicker, crisper words . . . words which move as life moves—flexibly, concisely, with drama and color and, above all, BREVITY . . . SLANG HAS COMPRESSED LIFE . . . THE KERNEL OF FEELING, NOT THE UNWIELDLY HUSK."

($5 PRIZE WINNER)

And I'm thinking you said a mouthful then, son.

1. The writer of a letter in competition for one of the three weekly prizes (two of $10 each and one of $5) must be under thirty years of age.

2. The letter must be upon some subject of importance to American youth.

3. The letter must not exceed 500 words in length.

4. The writer must give his or her age and full name and address, and the name of each week's awarded a prize will be published.

5. To be eligible for one of the prizes awarded each Monday a letter must bear postmark not later than noon of the preceding Saturday.

6. Miss Elsie Robinson is to be sole judge of the merits of letters submitted in the contest.

AN OFFICIAL WHO PRACTICES WHAT HE PREACHES
With Pen and Paper, Postmaster Tague Inaugurates Write-a-Letter Week

Girl About Town

by Mary X. Sullivan

WE HAVE HAD all kinds of weeks, in which we are urged to do anything from doing a good deed to changing the color. Now comes "WRITE A-LETTER WEEK," which sounds like one of the best of crusades in this category.

Postmaster Peter F. Tague of Boston has announced that during the next seven days the post office authorities will entreat us to write at least ONE letter. The object of the campaign is twofold: To increase the revenue of the department and to acquaint the public with the services of Uncle Sam, mail.

Here is a project fraught with human interest. Suppose every man and woman took pen in hand today and wrote the letter which he or she possibly should have neglected!

Suppose, for instance, that all the sons who are far from home should write to their mothers. That erstwhile lovers who have quarrelled and are still stubbornly silent should dash off a note. That old friends who have drifted apart through the years should reopen the friendship with a long deferred epistle.

Mr. Tague points out that letter writing is becoming a lost art; that although the mails are heavy, many of us seldom write except on business. He hopes that all of us will now heed Uncle Sam's request and pen those long-postponed missives.

It would be nice, at that, to get some mail from someone who wasn't trying to sell us something or remembering us to. Please remit.

FEULA BOND, Broadway and Hollywood star, who is coming to New England for a series of personal appearances, has been given a pair of matched silver candlesticks made by Paul Revere.

Miss Bond, who collects American antiques, has known of the existence of such a pair for some time, but cannot rest until they are hers. She has scoured a number of states in the hunt.

Paul Revere is known to every school child as a midnight rider, thanks to the fine press agenting of his ride by Longfellow. The fact that he was a prominent Boston silversmith has not been so well advertised.

ONE OF OUR SCOUTS reports that there is a difference in the Harvard freshmen this year. They come to Cambridge already equipped with casual sports clothes, slippy slickers, unmatched slacks and coats and black and white shoes. In former years they came all dressed up in store clothes and it took a while to attain that carefully careless look.

"The only difference between the freshmen and the upperclassmen now is that the freshmen's shoes are clean," said our informant, who is of Harvard '38.

New York Cavalcade

by Louis Sobol

CASUAL REFERENCE here to the Jersey Lily and her hitherto unpublicized bawth has brought so many letters pleading for the story that I was forced to beseech San Francisco's J. G. Lawlor to come to my aid. The aid dropped out of the envelope, and here it is, in curtailed and expurgated revision:

"SURE, I'LL BE GLAD to tell you about the Jersey Lily and her washtub bath. It was in the town of Bakersfield, where Bill Tibbett, pa of Lawrence Tibbett, drove the back from the Southern Hotel to Sumner, and he it was who brought Lily to the hotel.

"IT WAS in the Fall of '89 or the Spring of '90. I forget—when she rolled into Sumner in the private Pullman of Freddie Gebhard, which was specially built for her and her troupe. I was one of two bellhops at the Southern at the time.

"Anyway, Lily arrived, and her 39 pieces of luggage came later in the horse-drawn bus and also a small wagon, and she was assigned to Suite 8, which is where John L. Sullivan stopped later when he was touring in 'Honest Hearts and Willing Hands.' Well, I showed her and her cute maid to the suite, and waited for her to ring again.

"WELL, THE BELL rang and I bounded up the stairs—there was no elevator—and there was the Lily in her kimono, and the maid said 'Madame would like zee bawth—what for you not got bawth en suite?' I explained there was only two bathtubs in the house.

"DO I UNDERSTAND,' said Lily Langtry in that elegant contralto, 'there is only one bawth on this floor?' and I blushed and said, 'Yes,' because she was very pretty and haughty. 'Extraordinary,' she drawled in high-toned English . . . 'I can bring you a tub.' I said and she asked, 'Are you sure no one—no one has ever used it?' and I lied and said, 'No one has ever used it, madame' but I didn't tell her that it was used principally to boil stock—beef bones, etc., for soup.

"'Very well,' she sighed. 'Please fetch it—and fetch hot water and towels—many towels.'

"WELL, I SCRUBBED out the onion smell—washed it and sanded it and took it in and poured the hot water into that old galvanized boiler. The Jersey Lily looked at that tin can in haughty disgust, but finally she put a dainty foot into the water, looked at her maid, who nodded—so I went out — and they closed the door — and that's how the famous beauty of our time took her bath."

Among the [illegible] be discussed will be the [illegible] which has proven very popular in former years and which will start this season on December 12. Invitations will be sent out this week.

Football Fans Gay

The opening of the football season brought many young folks out to dine and dance after the game and even though Harvard came out second best a large number of the boys and girls repaired to Ten Acres in Wayland Saturday night.

Among the North Shore representatives was Joan Griess of Hamilton, who was squired by George H. Swift, Jr. She wore a pleated navy frock with a belt of scarlet suede.

Others who went from the stadium to Wayland were Mr. and Mrs Hamilton Heard, the latter in an ensemble of black, with revers of red, white and blue stripes.

Fashion Show On Proparvulis Program

A parade of the season's smoothest fashions is the high light of the early autumn fashion show to be staged by the Proparvulis Club a week from Saturday in the Parker House roof ballroom.

Edna Abbiatti of Quincy, vice-president in charge of bridges, is overseeing all plans with Mary Dean of Brookline serving as active chairman. Mary Dunn of Jamaica Plain, active club member will serve as style commentator at the event which aids the club's charity work.

Helping to stage the benefit affair are Kathleen Vallely of Winchester, Gertrude Chisholm of Quincy, Eleanor McElroy of Salem, Mildred Cotter of Lynn, Marguerite Barry of Newton and Kathryn Hannon of Newton.

Also serving on the committee is a large number of the club's executive board, Nora Mullarkey, Doris Cahi[illegible], Marguerite Sweeney, Agnes McArdle, Anna Doyle, Anna Copell, Rita Carlin, Flora Tomasello, Dorothy Kuroke and Helen Stout, a former president of the active organization.

Frances Kelly Engaged to Wed

Joining the ranks of the newly-engaged is Frances Kelly of Roslindale whose parents, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas C. Kelly, have just announced her engagement to Francis X. Morrissey of Charlestown.

Frances attended Emmanuel College and was graduated from Bridgewater Teachers' College.

Mr. Morrissey is the son of Mr and Mrs Thomas Morrissey of Charlestown.

Smith Club To Sponsor Style Show

Just in time for autumn shoppers comes the luncheon and fashion show to be held by the Boston Smith College Club at the Modern Arts shop, 554 Dartmouth street, at 12:30, October 24.

The clothes will be shown by Miss Tat Saunders, Smith alumnae, class of '19, from her own shops at Magnolia, Palm Beach and Watch Hill, Rhode Island.

Mrs Harris J. Nelson of 41 Beacon street, Boston, is at the head of the committee in charge of the event, with Martha Houser as her assistant. A number of Boston [illegible] will be among those who will be modeled by Mrs. Charles C. Cunningham.

Among features of the day will be donation tickets which entitle the lucky number holders to gifts of wearing apparel shown. Mrs. Philip Richardson of Newton Highlands and Mrs. Charles J. Draper of Belmont are directing sale of tickets. Also serving on the committee are Mrs. Henry B. Sawyer, Mrs. James Hooke and Mrs. Charles C. Mercer Jr.

NOTRE DAME TO MEET

Notre Dame Guild launches its season next Sunday afternoon with a meeting in Roxbury Academy of Notre Dame. Final plans will be made for a supper bridge at the Homecraft Shop, Boylston street, October 17.

Boston After Dark

By GEORGE HOLLAND

Monday Morning Musings:

Two shows, now, in the space of nine months, have cancelled the second weeks of their Boston engagements, and have gone on to New York to become hits . . . First was "Our Town," the Jed Harris production, which encountered such disastrous business at the Wilbur, that the producer begged off from his booking . . . "Our Town" won the Pulizter Prize and is now in its 35th week on Broadway . . .

GEORGE HOLLAND

The second cancellation was the recent one of "Hellzapoppin'," the Olsen and Johnson what-is-it? which is now definitely in the hit class in New York . . . Two more utterly different pieces of entertainment would be difficult to imagine . . . Theatrical producers being notably superstitious, it is to be hoped that the cancellation business is not the start of a trend.

Minor Musings:

Kate Smith's title of her autobiography is an appropriate one . . . It is "Living in a Great Big Way" . . . Rudy Vallee has been signed to play an eight day engagement at the San Francisco Automobile Show and the season is set for . . . Only two weeks ago Harrison's hussies in black tights left the town, but not before many in radio performances . . .

It is [illegible] that Ted Lewis [illegible] . . . Gene Buck, president of the ASCAP, [illegible] . . . Cole Porter and his wife [illegible] . . . Ethel Waters [illegible] . . . Vocal [illegible] . . .

He was irked by the continued bad weather, and the night before the hurricane struck, Vallee pulled stakes for New York. Had he waited, the famous entertainer would have been marooned by the weather and missed his show as well as the $4200 fee he collects for his services.

Incidentally, have you bought your tickets yet for the Vance Goodman Jitterbug Jamboree at the Boston Garden October 24, which is three weeks from today? . . . Tommy Waters the Garden's treasurer reports that the ticket racks are emptying fast . . .

Ralph Hale [illegible] . . . Lew Brice [illegible] . . . Dr. [illegible] . . . Lou Holtz [illegible] . . . Bert Wheeler [illegible] . . . Walter Scanlon [illegible] . . . Bert Lahr [illegible] . . . Jack Benny [illegible] . . . Ben Bernie [illegible] . . . Eddie Cantor [illegible] . . . Fred Allen [illegible] . . . Jack Haley [illegible] . . . Ed Wynn [illegible] . . . Joe Penner [illegible] . . . Milton Berle [illegible] . . . Bob Burns [illegible] . . . Jack Pearl [illegible] . . . Phil Baker [illegible] . . . Ed Sullivan [illegible] . . . Ted Healy [illegible] . . . Ken Murray [illegible] . . . Jack Benny [illegible] . . . Fred Allen [illegible] . . . Eddie Cantor [illegible] . . . Bert Lahr [illegible] . . . Joe Penner [illegible] . . . Milton Berle [illegible] . . . Bob Burns [illegible] . . . Jack Pearl [illegible] . . . Phil Baker [illegible] . . . Ed Sullivan [illegible] . . . Ted Healy [illegible] . . . Ken Murray [illegible] . . .

Once Over Lightly:

Sgt. Leslie Gaffney of War America will [illegible] . . . Mr. and Mrs. Ben Stein will celebrate their 40th wedding anniversary [illegible] . . . Mr. Stein is [illegible] . . . One of the silver plates went to War America, [illegible] . . . Among the Sunday's [illegible] . . . Lester Lewis [illegible] . . . Mrs. Lewis [illegible] . . . Mrs. Lewis

Franchot Tone Accepts Lead In Film

By LOUELLA O. PARSONS

(Copyright, 1938

HOLLYWOOD, Oct. 3.—Franchot Tone, a smart boy as well as a charming actor, has settled down story after story because he is eager to have the best possible picture for his first wife, Hollywood performance.

He finally read the script of "Katrina the Last" and said he would be glad to make the picture. To costar with Franchot in the picture will be Barbara Stanwyck. Franchot will leave for as soon as [illegible] for the spring theater season.

I heard today that Joan had bought "A Star Is Born" for [illegible] and that Janet Gaynor will be borrowed from Selznick International to play the role opposite Fredric March. Joan's baby is a girl and will be named Christina.

A line or two about Tallulah Bankhead. Tallulah is in town and she may take the leading role of the picture Mae West is to make after she finishes "Every Day's a Holiday." Mae and Tallulah have been friends for years and it would be a grand thing for both of them if they could be teamed in a picture.

Bruce Cabot is a handsome young actor who is being groomed for stardom by Universal. Bruce has been in pictures for a number of years but has never had the opportunity to show what he could do. Now he has been given the part of Wyatt Earp in "Frontier Marshal" and he is very excited about it.

Hardwicke Play Coming To Wilbur

F. Ethe Dowling, who before last season provided Broadway with one of its most outstanding productions, Maurice Evans in "Richard II"—will present Sir Cedric Hardwicke in "Shadow and Substance," a new play by Paul Vincent Carroll, at the Wilbur beginning Monday evening, October 17.

Sara Allgood and Julie Haydon are the featured players. In the [illegible] cast are Harry Sothern, Lloyd Gough, Len Doyle, Jill Stein, Gerald Buckley, John La Kearney and Almira Sessions.

Sir Cedric Hardwicke is one of the great stars of the English-speaking stage season before last he appeared on Broadway in the title role of "The Amazing Dr. Clitterhouse." Previously he had appeared in "Promise."

Among his London hits are "Tovarich," "The Late Christopher Bean" and "The Barretts of Wimpole Street." He has appeared on occasion in films in both Hollywood and England. Among his screen credits are "Les Miserables," "Nine Days a Queen," "Green Light" and "Becky Sharp."

'Amphitryon 38' Opens Tonight At Colonial

Some scholars say that Hesiod started it. Others say Aeschylus was the first and still others opt for the honor upon Euripides. But one thing is certain: it has been going on for centuries. For hundreds of years writers have been discovering the potentialities of the Amphitryon legend and have been writing their views in terms of gay philosophy or cynical disbelief of the story of Jupiter's wooing of the wife of the warrior Amphitryon.

Liberal minded persons may just as well claim that it must have been Jupiter who started it all. It was he who stepped over from Bright Olympus to woo the fair Alkmena and so create for posterity Hercules. Hercules, you will recall, had a way with the ladies, to say the least, and was the hero of many of Greece's best tales.

The latest version of the sparkling fable will be presented at the Colonial Theater tonight with Alfred Lunt playing the role of Jupiter and Lynn Fontanne that of the wife, Alkmena. It will be for a two-week engagement.

AT COLONIAL TONIGHT—Lynn Fontanne and Alfred Lunt as the lovely and indomitable Alkema and Jupiter, the king of gods, in "Amphitryon 38," internationally successful play opening tonight at the Colonial.

Width Between Sport Heroism and Goathood

THERE IS OFTEN A THIN, WAVERING line between bumhood and heroism in professional sport. Consider the cases of Gabby Hartnett, the joy-soused manager of the Chicago Cubs, and Pie Traynor, the gloom-soaked leader of the Pittsburgh Pirates. Today Gabby is being smeared with sugar words by the Chicago press and people for his managerial magic, and to quote a few of the exerpts from the writer's emotional phrasings they are calling him the "dynamic director," ebulent example-setter," "competitive keynoter" and similar sport page persiflage. But the Pittsburgh press, in its paroxysm of disappointment, is scolding Pie for "lacking masculine hardness" and "failing to terrorize his men by sheer force of tongue" into outdoing their natural talents.

AUSTEN LAKE

Less than a week ago Pie was perched on the pinacle of fame and Gabby was bogged down in the slough of despond. I think you will agree that there is nothing below first place in major league baseball, except air, alibis and a few consolation dollars which come from surplus series profits. Yes! Pie seemed about to salvage his shaky job and continuing on for another term of years. And Gabby seemed about to fall down the same manhole where Charley Grimm, Rogers Hornsby and Joe McCarthy were dropped several times before him.

[illegible] last Wednesday and Gabby [illegible] was pretty sore, though not [illegible] that Pie [illegible] the Pirates when the birds were [illegible] the Series [illegible] time moves South for spring training. [illegible] Pittsburgh is that Mrs. Barney Dreyfuss [illegible] are stalking around for another [illegible]

Gabby Was Discouraged

LET'S [illegible] AT THE RECORD not very far back [illegible] September 7. A few days after Hartnett had [illegible] into Charley Grimm's [illegible] was the big smile. I first saw [illegible] was [illegible] fine whiskers. The Mule Watch [illegible] map was missing. Worrying [illegible] say even a sacrifice fly would [illegible] We'd lost five games in the row [illegible] we'd lost them if somebody had [illegible] scratching the ba[illegible]

[illegible] that date indicates [illegible] that the Bruins [illegible] Cubs were [illegible] new yellow ball which was [illegible] M. Hartnett was then on his way [illegible] They could put Neon lights on [illegible] was we're swinging, he grumbled [illegible] around [illegible] with [illegible] and a few [illegible] and [illegible] at that moment [illegible] was [illegible]

Remember Gabby's Foul Homer?

THE SCENE CHANGES TO SEPTEMBER 17, the last Boston visit of the Pittsburgh Pirates and Pie Traynor is sitting, cross legged and shirtless in the managerial suite of the Hotel Kenmore. At the time his club is leading by five games and, from external appearances seems to have plenty of leg, gumption and puff left. "I figure we can glide in," he says confidently. "We're getting the most consistent pitching in the league. The home office tells me they will start accepting series reservations next week."

Life looked rosy. You couldn't have bought Pie's series outlook for $50,000.

But history shows that the Pirates slid out instead of in, and today the Pittsburgh home office is beginning the painful process of refunding nearly $75,000 in advance ticket sales. Nothing causes a ball magnate such anguish as having to mail back funds once they are goaled in the company till.

What happened to unhorse Pie and elevate Gabby is two dramatic things. On September 14 at Bee's Field, Gabby hit a third inning homerun with the bases full and two out—a ball which all the 5000 witnesses, except Umpire Tiny Parker, swore went to the foul side of the outfield pole by four feet. And maybe you remember how hysterical Casey Stengel was about that? The game was protested, of course, but Casey might as well have hollered with his head in a rain barrel. There was no recount on that one. So, there was one of your two games by which the pennant was decided

Two Homers Worth $5,500,000

THEN THERE WAS THAT NINTH INNING homer which [illegible] Gabby hit against Pittsburgh last Wednesday, with two out and two strikes in the ninth inning. No question about that one! The ball, from accounts, traveled on an ascending line into the center field stands. And there was your second game.

So perhaps you might say that the thin, wavering line which divides athletic heroism from goathood in this case was the margin between an umpire's poor eyesight in Boston and a just, exasperated swing in Chicago. Anyway Gabby hit the jackpot by two games and the [illegible] calculable value of those two socks can easily be placed at $5,000,000 in heritage heritage and circumstance for visiting fans, not to mention $250,000 in receipts to be divided between the Cubs' stockholders and hired men.

Well, one may feel sympathetic to Traynor and offer him the doubtful comfort of "Well, life is that way," or "That's baseball." But you've got to hand it to [illegible] brought home the pig's brisket, personally

Chicago Acclaims Hartnett Honeys

CHICAGO, Oct. 3 (AP)—Those scrapping Chicago Cubs, not a truly great ball club, but hotter than is lawful, came home today to a jubilant townsfolk, bringing with them another National League pennant.

There was a parade for Gabby Hartnett's honeys, starting at Wrigley Field and winding down through the city, in tardy tribute to a bunch of fellows who didn't know when they were licked.

The players, who clinched the flag only two days ago at St. Louis and were somewhat the worse for wear, would vastly have preferred to spend the day in strenuous resting-up for the start of the World Series Wednesday against the New York Yankees.

But there's no putting off a date once the confetti is paid for.

The boys dashed home from St. Louis on a special train and every thing was very sober for the celebrating all had been attended to on the previous evening.

"WE'RE HOT," SAY CUBS

The [illegible] thing [illegible] had the most exciting event during the [illegible] one of the heroes was a [illegible] came at the end of the [illegible] Hartnett [illegible]

Harvard, Yale Stick Out Chins

By WILL CONNELL

Monday's wash was on the line early this day, as Ivy coaches in several sectors hung out defeat-stained jerseys.

Dick Harlow at Harvard and Ducky Pond of Yale had the worst of the scrubbing jobs for both were tipped over Saturday to begin face further woe this week.

Harlows Harvards have Cornell coming to the Stadium and the Yales ride to Princeton and Penn.

Cornell on basis of early-season tales, should flatten the Crimson, but the latter will make it a game affair.

BEATING NO SURPRISE

Harlows teams have plenty of bounce, and the harder they get worked the harder they come back.

That beating by Brown wasn't a surprise anyhow. A lot of people were fooled because Harvard was beaten ending 37 but forget that. This is another year.

The Crimson will have some new stuff to toss at Cornell, though Brown forced its victim to use some of its best weapons.

Problem No. 1 for Harvard is how to stop Brud Holland, Cornell end who rambled 75 yards as his team downed a good Colgate team the other day.

Yale's defeat wasn't a surprise either. Lou Little pointed for the game with a hangup first team and an all-American back, Sid Luckman.

LIONS AT WEST POINT

Saturday last saw Penn, hard a beating Lafayette unbeaten last year, and the Pennmen showed strength enough to smoke them fellers over Yale, maybe at 5-4 or so.

Columbia steps into a very tough afternoon at West Point and Mr. Lou's joys may be shortlived. Army is good, and getting better.

Tuss McLaughry, deservedly back on top of the world, has his work cut, because Lafayette comes to Providence. It will be a brisk engagement for the Bruins.

Dartmouth, smoothing out into battle form, gets its first real test at Princeton this week, and if the Indians win this one the Easterners have a right to talk about national titles.

Tufts University, tied by Lehigh in a rugged contest, has St. Lawrence coming to Boston this week and Pat Hanley's team will show its real class.

Holy Cross, easy winner over Rhode Island State, entertains Manhattan. While the Purple will be favored, Manhattan has come along so fast that the home team can't take any chances.

Nick Mellen Grabs Spotlight

It would require more than a little research into the history of "dark horses" to unearth a performance that, for general excellence under fire, can come close to matching the fine play of Bob Feldmeier's Navy Marines in Harvard's unsuccessful upset try Saturday with Brown.

Mellen was one of four Crimson players to go 60 minutes against the raging Bruins, the others being ends Don Daughters and Captain Bob Green and tackle Ken Booth.

But the most surprising part of the Mellen performance was that the other three Iron Men of Harlow's seven-deep line had reputations for their abilities to play smart, heads-up football, while Nick was practically an unknown quantity.

REPAYS HARLOW

It's no secret that Dick Harlow was taking quite a gamble in starting the hitherto-little-heralded Reservedale lad in a position that is very essential to the success of the Harvard attack. Yet when the cards were played on the table Mellen fulfilled the confidence that his coach had placed in him.

This could hardly have been foretold from his previous record, which even to be generous could properly be termed only fair. Mellen fought his way up to the varsity through the hard channels of the jayvee teams, which often suffer in silence as the varsity tunes up for major games by crashing play after play without end at the lean and tattered subs.

Dodger Hurler's Jaw Broken

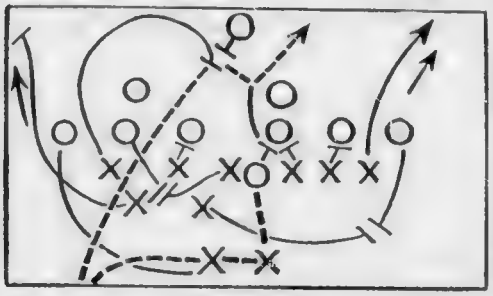
He was in the bull pen with Catcher Gilbe Campbell. After delivering a pitch something in the game attracted his attention

Tufts Great Practice Team

Every department of the Tufts grid squad will receive the constant attention of the Jumbo coaches because of the upset at the hands of Colby in their opener on Saturday.

A Tufts eleven, which worked with clock-like precision in their recent afternoon workouts failed sadly in its first actual assignment and Head Coach Lew Manly Lane, Coach Mike Rachdorf and Backfield Coach Fish Ellis will drive the team mercilessly all week in the hope of redeeming themselves in the Amherst game at the Oval on Saturday.

Famous Play



(Wisconsin No. 1)

Harry Stuhldreher recalls this as one of Wisconsin's better plays in the wild, 26 to 18, game against Northwestern in 1936. It is a hook pass from the right halfback to the left end and designed to draw in the safety man. It was successful against Northwestern when Clarence Tommerson passed to Vernon Peak. Peak ran a few strides and then lateraled to Neil Pohl, the Wisconsin center, who was left open by the Northwestern safety back.

Pinckert

Sore at Scorer

WASHINGTON, Oct. 3 (AP)—Ernie Pinckert got sore today when he found the record books showed him scoring only two touchdowns in seven years as a professional football halfback.

"I've scored three!" he said indignantly.

Pinckert is one of the best paid halfbacks in the pro game, but seldom carries the ball. His job is running interference for the ball carriers.

MR. BOSTON

Amateur Boxing Takes a Bow | Million to Next Heavy Champ

By JACK CONWAY

AMATEUR BOXING will come roaring from its corner at the Arena tonight as the Irish American A. A. opens its indoor season. George Freeman, who knows more about the simon pure fistic game than anybody in New England, says the new talent has amazed him.

Mr. Boston

"I have seen many of the younger crop of boxers during the summer months and they have displayed remarkable ability," said Freeman. "The park department bouts were jammed with thrills, while there was a great deal of new talent. Some of the champions of last year, if still in the ranks of the amateurs, will have difficult tasks retaining their titles."

Youth is eager, determined and courageous. It is ever pushing its way towards the top. Our amateur boxers are carrying the banner of Flaming Youth, and they won't be denied in their drive for the high places in boxing.

It is easy to understand the tremendous popularity of amateur boxing. It is a sport in which youngsters give every ounce of energy at their command in an effort to win. The public has always appreciated the efforts of these boys, and as a result the finals in the various local amateur boxing tournaments have attracted great crowds.

The trials, New England finals, All-Eastern finals and grand national finals of the Hearst All-America boxing tournament last year drew 50,000 persons. It was the highest attendance figures of any amateur boxing tournament ever held in New England. More important, it was a brilliant show replete with dazzling boxing, sturdy punching, and 100 per cent effort on the part of every youngster who like a Crusader of old went forth in quest of conquest.

The All-Eastern finals of the Hearst All-America boxing tournament have already been awarded to Boston. They will be staged at the Garden on December 12. The complete plans for the Hearst All-America with the dates of the trial bouts and of the New England finals as well as of the grand national will be announced in tomorrow's Boston Evening American.

Many of the boxers who will compete in the All-America tournament will be in action at the Arena tonight. The Irish American A. A. announces it has a class show, and it should furnish sensational action.

A Million-Dollar Job

THERE IS A million-dollar job for the white heavyweight who can come along and defeat Joe Louis. Gene Tunney says that the white heavyweight who can wrest the championship from Louis will be the most popular boxer in the history of the ring.

As Louis refuses to meet colored heavyweights, a white boxer will eventually come to the front and knock the "Brown Bomber" from his throne.

It is possible that one of the young heavyweights who will compete in one of the local amateur tournaments may eventually become world's champion.

When Jack Sharkey stepped off the battleship Denver in the Charlestown Navy Yard to box as a professional in Boston for $150, he wasn't taken seriously by the fans. Later when I declared Sharkey would some day fight Jack Dempsey and that he would become heavyweight champion of the world there were persons who thought I had a splendid imagination but very little knowledge of boxing.

What Sharkey did some other young boxer can accomplish if he shows the right kind of determination and desire to learn.

One night at the Arena Joe Louis was badly beaten in the light heavyweight class of the national amateur boxing championships. Managers of professional boxers at the ringside in search of talent didn't give Louis any consideration. They thought he was just another young boxer who was destined to soon pass out of the boxing picture.

These same msangers were left talking to themselves when Louis won the amateur light heavyweight championship at St. Louis a year later, and then entered the professional ring and became world's champion.

It is happenings such as this that give added interest to amateur boxing tournaments. A boy with what it takes to reach the top can run a powerful right hand punch into a million dollars.

A Great Victory for Brown

IT WAS A splendid Brown team that defeated Harvard in the Stadium. The victory was a fine one for Coach Tuss McLaughry in view of the fact Brown is off the Crimson schedule for the next three years. It is always much more satisfactory to end a temporary break in athletic schedules with a smashing victory.

The Brown game gave Harvard the kind of a test it needed and the Crimson should show results of its experience when it opposes Cornell on Saturday. Cornell has a veteran team, and will give Harvard a terrific battle.

"Me and Lee Will Beat Them!"

"ME AND Lee will beat them!"

It is the old Dizzy Dean talking. Confident and cocky Dean will give the Yankees plenty of trouble in the series. Even though Dizzy no longer has his "fire" ball, he still has plenty of stuff, and if he can get over the "mental" sore arm he will be a tower of strength for the Cubs.

As for Bill Lee, he won 22 games for the Cubs this year. He beat the Phillies last Tuesday, and then took part in each of the four games against the Pirates. During September, Lee pitched four straight shutouts.

Bill is one of Branch Rickey's few baseball mistakes. Rickey sold Lee to the Cubs from one of the Cardinals' farms. Lee will be 29 years of age this month, and he says he would like a World Series victory over the Yankees as a birthday present.

Roslindale Bids For District Title

Opens Against East Boston

Although they have had only a few days of practice, due to the rainy weather, Coach Fred Murray's Roslindale High football team looms as a strong contender for the district title this season.

With six veterans forming the nucleus and a host of fellows who saw plenty of service last year on hand, Coach Murray expects to have a banner year. Last year, Murray's boys dropped only one game—that to South Boston in the championship game, 2 to 0. The only points scored against them during the entire year.

ROVING CENTER

With Hal Kallenberg, roving center, and diminutive Eddie Wallace, quarterback, co-captains last year, leading the attack, the Roslindale lads expect to pick up where they left off last season and take their opponents into camp one at a time. And, when they meet Southie, in what they have made their objective game, November 15, it's going to be bad on the Peninsular boys.

The line is being built around Hal Kallenberg, its outstanding player. At guards, Charlie McKenney, Joe Hurley and Ed Low are having a merry battle for the starting assignments.

Barney Kelley and elongated Paul Shirar seem to have the tackle berths clinched. Both played regular last year. At the wings, Murray has "Scoup" Broderick and Billy Lammers.

EDUCATED TOE

Last year, Broderick was pulled out of the line a number of times to do the kicking and passing. But every time the team did this, it gave the play away to their opponents. So, if Murray can develop him into a ball carrier, he expects to use him in the backfield.

The other regular back last year who worked with Wallace, is Dick Jameson, the boy who also has an educated toe. Good looking prospects for the remaining two backfield berths are Walter Yarosh, Ed Lachinsky, Ray Smith, Barney Fay and John Kallenberg.

The Roslindale boys will open the Boston school schedule at the Bee Hive, tomorrow afternoon, against East Boston.

Tuss Shakes Off Wolves

Harvard's Setup Deceptive

The Chicago Cubs should remember "Tiny" Parker at Christmas . . . I doubt if he'll ever again be in a position to do them a favor on the diamond . . . Thousands of baseball fans went to Fenway Park to see Jimmy Foxx in action yesterday . . . But, they were disappointed for "Double X" watched the game from the press coop . . . Despite the setback by Brown, Harvard is noticeably stronger than at this time a year ago . . . Through his victory over the Crimson, "Tuss" McLaughry shook the wolves off his heels . . . They are now patting him on the back . . . After voting for Johnny Orlando, the club house boy, to get a half share of the Red Sox World Series cut, Jimmy Foxx handed the Chelsea boy a check for $100, "Doc" Cramer and Joe Vosmik slipped him a "Half C" and Johnny Peacock gave him $30 . . . Johnny will hear from Joe Cronin and "Lefty" Grove at Xmas by which time he'll be in need of some spending money . . . Joe Vosmik flew to Cleveland last night . . . Jack Wilson and Bobby Doerr started for the Pacific Coast by making the journey to New York with the Yankees . . . The Dr. Howard Gray, who operated on Jimmy Roosevelt, played with Princeton in '22 and '23 . . . He blocked the kick in the last period of the Princeton-Chicago game and started the Tigers on their way to a victory after they had trailed 18 to 9 . . . "Jo Jo" Ross, who is playing tackle for Weymouth High is the son of Joe Ross, formerly of Hull . . . The coming meeting at Narragansett will be extended through Thanksgiving Day . . . But, the announcement will not be made officially until after election . . . The Red Sox rate Bill Summers, of Upton, as the best umpire in the American League . . . Billy Weidelman, the young shortstop the Bees had at Evansville, Ind., this season, who was operated on last week, left for his Ohio home this morning . . . Capt. Larry Atwell of Brown, didn't return after the first half of the Harvard game . . . He was given a very severe going over by Henry Russell and Hack Wilson after he kicked off following the first Brown touchdown . . . He was lucky to have weathered that period . . . There's no limit to the number or variety of plays Harvard can run from its new backfield semi kick formation . . . Win Green will leave for Pensacola, Fla., tomorrow . . . He will take a much needed two weeks vacation before reporting to the Bruins at Hershey, Pa. . . . Freddie Corcoran's in town, on a short visit.

Cronin's Bats Snap DiMaggio's Slump

By BILL GRIMES

While the New York Yankees were backing into the pennant during their last Western trip, Joe DiMaggio broke all of his pet bats. And, of course, he went into a slump.

Frantically, DiMaggio wired for a new assortment of war clubs. They were delivered to him in the Yankee Stadium but when he tried them out they were all too heavy.

During a fanning bee with Joe Cronin yesterday, DiMaggio admitted that he hadn't been hitting because he was not using the right bats.

"I can't answer for the other Yanks," declared DiMag, "but, I know why I've fallen off at the plate. During the last trip through the west, I busted all of my good bats. And, the replacements sent to me are all too heavy. I can't get them around."

"I don't know what I'm going to do during the series unless I can dig up some of the clubs I gave away this season. They are not only the proper weight, length and balance but better seasoned than any new ones I might get from the factory.

"You wouldn't have any of my bats in your locker, would you, Joe?" pleaded the Yankee.

"Well, Joe," replied the Sox manager, "being as how you are a 'Frisco boy, and can't do us any more harm this season, come with me and I'll show you some of your bats. I managed to get at least one of them mixed up with ours during every series we played the Yankees this season. So I've got a pretty good collection. I'm through for the season, and therefore I'll do my bit toward pulling you out of a tough spot."

The two 'Frisco boys went into the Red Sox quarters and over the Cronin's private dressing room Manager Joe called for the key to his bat trunk and dug out more than a half dozen bats with "Di-Maggio" stenciled on them.

Now, ordinarily, Joe DiMaggio is about as loquacious as a clam and a real "dead pan." But, when he spied his old bats, he actually began to talk and even laughed, which is a world's record.

"It's been a long time since I saw anything that pleased me as much as these bats," confessed the Yankee. "No kidding, Joe, I was beginning to worry that I'd be a flop in the series trying to swing bats, which are too heavy for me, against Lee and Bryant this week."

"But, I'm all right now, for these clubs feel perfect. I'll try one of them out this afternoon. And, I'll bet I get my timing back before the series starts on Wednesday."

(Joe DiMaggio hit a home run into the screen with two men aboard yesterday.

As the Yankee departed from the Red Sox dressing room, Joe Cronin yelled after him, "Listen, don't forget to return those clubs after the series. I'll need them next spring in the South."

"I'll do that little thing, Joe. I'll ship them down to Washington, just as soon as we polish off those Cubs."

Schalk, Browns In Big Huddle

CHICAGO, Oct. 3 (AP) — Ray Schalk, manager of the Indianapolis club of the American Association, may be the successor to Gabby Street as manager of the St. Louis Browns in 1939.

Schalk conferred today with Donald Barnes, president of the Browns and William De Witt, general manager. Barnes said, however, the discussion was more about young players in the American Association than over the management of the Browns, but that Schalk might be a possibility.

Schalk, once one of baseball's greatest catchers as a member of the Chicago White Sox, was manager of the Buffalo team of the International League for six years. He took over the management of the Indianapolis club last year.

Lazzeri Picks Cubs to Win World Series

CHICAGO, Oct. 3 (INS)—"The Yankees, two to one? Poppycock!"

It's Tony Lazzeri speaking, and who is better acquainted with the New York Yankees and the Chicago Cubs than this erstwhile Yankee, who only a year ago was sparking the Ruppert Rifles to a crushing victory over the Giants in 1937's grand finale of baseball?

The Cubs ought to win, says Tony, behind the pitching of Bill Lee, Tex Carleton (Yes, that's his second choice), Larry French, Clay Bryant, Dizzy Dean and Charley Root. He looks for Monte Pearson to cause the Windy City crew most trouble.

For those who expect to find a bunch of cripples on the Cub side of Wrigley's playing field Wednesday a surprise is in store. Baseball players are a hardy lot.

HERMAN'S TOE INJURED

Bill Herman's spiked toe isn't likely to be apparent in his play, although it still gives him some trouble; Hartnett in his play, although it still gives him some trouble; Hartnett has taken the bandages from his thrice-injured fingers, and isn't giving them a passing thought.

A pair of former Cub managers, including the recently bounced Charlie Grimm, were in St. Louis to congratulate their former charges. Both Grimm and Rogers Hornsby live there . . . Hornsby says the Cubs this year are the strongest National League team to win the series in a long time.

The Old Rajah of baseball is putting his blue chips on Dizzy Dean to take the Yankees apart handily, and he hopes the great fireballer of yore will fling in the opener.

LEE TO START

Don't let anyone confuse you as to who will be the opening pitcher against the Yankees. Even the heroic person of Gabby Hartnett himself wouldn't dare start anyone but "General" Bill Lee. Bill is in the pink of condition, and has set a sizzling pace in recent weeks—far the best in the entire league. He will be there, despite the master minds who figure the Yanks will eat up his fast one.

A good many people figure it was the jitters that got the Pittsburgh Pirates in the stretch, and Gabby Hartnett is among them. He isn't worrying about his Cubs when they get up against the Yankees for the big payoff, however.

Golden Gloves Ahead

Amateurs Clash At Arena Tonight

The Irish American A. A. will usher in the amateur boxing season of Boston tonight at the Arena.

The opening shot will be the first in a series of four tryout tourneys for the 1938 Golden Glove championships. The other preliminary meetings will be held on October 10, 17 and 24 with the grand finals on October 31.

All boxers report at the Arena at 6 o'clock tonight to weigh in, and the first bout will go in the ring at 8:15.

From the size of the list of entries there will be plenty doing from that hour until close to midnight.

EIGHT CLASSES

Forty-eight youthful gladiators in eight classes of open and novice competition have signed. There are six divisions at open weights in the 118, 126, 135, 147 $and 160 pounds and heavyweights as well as two groups of novices at 147 and 160 pounds.

The entry list is studded with names of old time favorites as well as those of boys who have come fast during the summer season.

Two titleholders are down for combat in the 118 with Dick Velpe of Wakefield, the New England champ and Albert Di'Orio of West Warwick, Rhode Island crown carrier fighting it out with Tony Pepo, Boston; Joe Conroy, Wakefield; John Leonard, Taunton; Johnny Lynch, Cambridge and Robert Ewing, East Boston.

Barlund, Nova Clash Tonight

NEW YORK, Oct. 3 (AP)—Two of the best of the young heavyweights—after you pass over the distance between Joe Louis and his nearest contenders—clash at Madison Square Garden tonight in a 15-round bout between Gunnar Barlund of Finland and Lou Nova of California.

Neither is of title calibre yet, but tonight's bout may settle which one must be reckoned with in the fuure.

Barlund, afer a slump last year, has won four of his last six fights by the knockout route.

Hole-in-One Winner!

A. E. Fletcher Takes 1938 Prize

With the closing of the sixth annual Boston Evening American-Sunday Advertiser hole-in-one tournament at Franklin Park on the Sabbath, after a week of competition, A. E. Fletcher, Boston Elevated starter, won the men's division. He finished only six inches away from the cup.

While a large number of contestants tried their skill in the final day of the feature, none were able to better the mark set by Fletcher last week.

Even though none of the shooters landed an "ace" during the tourney, the shot at the six inches made by Fletcher was a remarkable one.

Former Governor James M. Curley, with Mrs. Curley and Mrs. Paul Curley, touring the golf course, watched the late stages of the tourney.

Watch the Boston Evening American for further details and announcements of prizes for men and women who competed in the tournament.
